Truman Flying Over Pacific Toward Meeting

Wake Island Probable Site For Conference With Gen. MacArthur

ENROUTE TO HAWAII WITH PRESIDENT TRUMAN, Oct. 13—(AP)—President Truman flew out over the Pacific toward Hawaii in good weather today enroute to his momentous conference with General MacArthur.

The high strategy meeting this weekend on the Korean conflict and Asian communism generally was expected to be announced late today, Presidential Secretary Charles G. Ross said.

Probably Wake

Presidential party members have been saying the meeting will be held at Wake island. It will cover the final phases of United Nations actions in Korea, including reconstruction and rehabilitation of that war-torn country, and strategy to counter increasing Communist threats in the Far East, including the menace to IndoChina.

Mr. Truman left on the Independence at 3:13 a. m. from Fairfield-Suisun air force base, 60 miles east of San Francisco, after a brief conference with Gen. Omar Bradley, chairman of the joint chiefs of staff, and other members of his official party.

The President devoted a good part of last evening to visiting litter cases. Approximately 100 had just arrived from the Korean fighting front at the air base hospital. Mr. Truman talked with each of the wounded men and signed short snorter bills, casts and other souvenirs.

Much Impressed

"I was very much impressed by the wonderful morale of these boys," the President was quoted by Ross. "When we have boys like these, then we don't have to worry much about the future of the country."

Gen. Bradley landed at the California base less than two hours after the president's blue and silver "Independence" arrived. The military chief was accompanied in the "Dew Drop," an Air Force Constellation, by W. Averell Harriman, special presidential assistant for foreign affairs; Secretary of the Army Frank Pace; Philip C. Jessup, ambassador-at-large; and Dean Rusk, assistant secretary of state for foreign affairs.

Mr. Truman is due at Hickam Field, Honolulu, about 8:30 a. m. Hawaiian time (1:30 p. m. Salem time). He will remain there until about midnight; then will leave on the last leg of his flight to meet Gen. MacArthur.

The President will be back in this area by Tuesday, to make a major foreign affairs speech in San Francisco at the Civic Opera house. It will be followed by a second, even more important, address before the United Nations general assembly in New York Oct. 24.

MacArthur's Plane Takes Off Tomorrow

TOKYO, Oct. 13—(AP)—General MacArthur is expected to leave early Saturday morning (Tokyo time) for his weekend conference with President Truman in the Pacific, reliable sources here said today.

The general will be accompanied by at least five top aides. MacArthur's party is expected to arrive at its rendezvous with Mr. Truman late Saturday afternoon.

OFF-SHORE SHELLING—UN naval task force, including British, Canadian and Australian ships (ship symbols), led by U. S. battleship Missouri, shelled Chonjin, North Korean industrial center, 49 miles from the Soviet border. Meanwhile, American troops, fighting just north of the 38th parallel, slammed into Kumchon's southern environs. To the east, other UN forces advanced 28 miles above the frontier, seizing the hub of Pyonggang. On the northeast sector elements of the ROK 3rd and Capital Divisions battled Reds about a mile west of Wonsan and also drove the Communists north toward Hungnam.

Salem's Second War Casualty

Sergeant Dale Lee Fisher Killed At Inchon, Korea

Sgt. Fisher

Sgt. Dale Lee Fisher, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Winters of the Georgetown road, was killed in action Sept. 22 in the Inchon section of Korea, a Defense department telegram informed his parents yesterday.

Sgt. Fisher was a member of the 32nd Infantry division which made the Inchon landing after 20 months overseas, most of which was spent with the Japanese occupation forces.

He was born Sept. 15, 1930, in Alliance and attended schools at Carrollton and junior and senior high schools in Salem. He was employed by the National Sanitary company at the time of his enlistment in June, 1948.

He trained at Columbia, S. C., and attended a leaders school at that camp. He received his promotion to sergeant last August.

Survivors, besides his parents, include two half-brothers Jack and Gerald, and two half-sisters, Elsie and Carole, all at home, and his grandmother, Mrs. Agnes Whitten of Minerva.

Sgt. Fisher was the second Salem man to lose his life in the war against the Communists in Korea.

The first, Pfc. George Gfeller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Gfeller of 532 Bank st, was killed July 24.

Boy Scouts Training Helps Youths Become Good Citizens

PROBABLY the most dramatic lesson in patriotism this year occurred last July when 47,000 Boy Scouts assembled at Valley Forge, Pa., on a "Crusade to Strengthen the Arm of Liberty."

Celebrating scouting's 40th anniversary, the huge National Jamboree was a striking example of young men learning brotherhood through association with boys from every part of the United States and from many countries of the world.

Sixty-eight Columbiana Council scouts were able to have this lesson directly, 10 of them and one adult leader from Salem. The community is now able to have reports from these scouts, and to bring the benefits of their experience to as many as possible.

Local use of the scout program has increased in many ways. One new troop has been formed recently in the Christian church, and another is in process at the Baptist church.

Camping at the McKinley Scout Reservation near Lisbon has also increased by 40 percent in weekend camping and 60 percent in the organized summer camp period. There, excellent training courses for boy scout and cub scout leaders have been conducted.

The funds used by the Columbiana Boy Scout Council to maintain this program are an investment in the future. "On my honor—" is an important step for any boy's life, and financial support is a working, living way for responsible citizens to assure themselves that there will be a reservoir of responsible, solid, leaders in the future.

Philadelphia Numbers Game To Be Probed

Senate Crime Group After Racket Preying On School Children

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 13—(AP)—The senate crime investigating committee moved from New York to Philadelphia today with plans to throw its spotlight on a $100,000,000-a-year policy racket preying on school children.

Senator Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn), chairman of the committee, said the crime probers have reason to believe the major gambling activity in the Philadelphia area is the policy or numbers racket.

Alfred M. Klein, assistant counsel for the committee, estimated the gross annual take of the numbers game here at $100,000,000, including "the pennies of countless school children."

Among those to be heard during the committee's closed door sessions in Philadelphia will be:

Mayor's Son

Richard Samuel, son of Philadelphia's mayor Bernard Samuel.

Judge Joseph Sloane of common pleas court and another unnamed jurist.

Director of Public Safety Samuel H. Rosenberg.

Police Superintendent Howard P. Sutton and other members of the police department.

Frank (Blinky) Palermo, manager of lightweight boxing champion Ike Williams.

Rosenberg and the two purists agreed to appear voluntarily while Richard Samuel, the police officials and Palermo were subpenaed. Samuel, who is a property assessor in the board of revision of taxes, was told to bring his financial records.

Judge Sloan has been active in efforts to uncover the heads of Philadelphia's gambling kingdom.

During a radio appearance last night, Kefauver said he has learned U.S. sources are providing Charles (Lucky) Luciano, deported vice overlord now in Italy, with "lots of currency."

Kefauver and the two other members of his committee came to Philadelphia yesterday after winding up two days of closed hearings at New York. Working with him are Senators Herbert R. O'Conor (D-Md) and Alexander Wiley (R-Wis).

At New York, Kefauver said the committee may call former Mayor William O'Dwyer and Brooklyn bookie boss Harry Gross.

Meanwhile, a Brooklyn grand jury said it would summon the ex-mayor of New York.

Gross has admitted paying off crooked New York police at the rate of $1,000,000,000 a year for protection. He refused to name names.

City Will Try Drive-In Parking

System Will Undergo Experimental Period

The new system of drive-in parking will be installed for an experimental period beginning sometime next week at a section of downtown E. State st, Mayor Harry M. Vincent announced today.

The system, which was tried out at a section of Highland ave last week and reported to be a success, requires about 48 feet for the parking of two cars instead of the 22 feet alloted each vehicle by existing meters. It will be instituted at the south side of E. State st between the Salem Diner and S. Broadway as soon as maintenance workers have painted the necessary street markings, Mayor Vincent said.

The method is designed to enable motorists to drive directly into the assigned parking area without blocking traffic. Two cars will be parked closely together in an 18 feet area for each.

At the ends of each car will be a restricted area of 11 or 12 feet which will permit the motorists to maneuver his vehicle along the curb, away from traffic.

Dual parking meters would ordinarily service both vehicles. However, under the experimental program, the existing meters will remain in use and only those interfering with the car doors will be removed, the mayor said.

South Koreans Make Drive From Fallen Wonsan

Pyongyang Bypassed; Red Korea Premier Admits Near Defeat

TOKYO, Oct. 13—(AP)—Thirty-seven bombarding warships, South Korean ground forces and Allied planes hacked away today at Red Korean supply lines from Soviet Siberia on the blazing new northeastern coastal fighting front.

There still was no evidence of an Allied amphibious landing along the heavily bombarded coast.

But the South Korean infantry (ROKs) made it a three-ply attack with an unexpected thrust north from captured Wonsan, port on the Sea of Japan.

(Red Korea's Premier Kim Il Sung was quoted by the Chinese Communist radio as acknowledging Wednesday: "Now our motherland is in a very dangerous position." It appeared to be his frankest admission that his Russian-sponsored regime faces defeat. Previously he was defiant. The Red China broadcast was heard in San Francisco).

Fighting Is Rough

Expected to swing west across the peninsula toward the Red capital, Pyongyang, the ROKs hit straight up the coast instead. Across the peninsula, Allied drives toward Pyongyang moved steadily ahead—but fighting was tougher.

The ROKs were 120-odd miles from the 130-mile-long northeastern coastal strip where the United Nations bombardment fleet led by the battleship Missouri poured fire and steel ashore Thursday and Friday in continuing big gun and carrier plane assaults.

The ROK troops were powerfully supported by fighter planes and the U. S. cruiser Rochester, a detached unit of the roving heavy bombardment fleet.

To map high strategy on what appears to be the final phases of the Korean war, General MacArthur prepared to leave Tokyo early Saturday for his weekend Pacific rendezvous with President Truman.

President Truman was flying across the Pacific to the meeting place — believed to be Wake island.

On Korea's east coast ground fighting front, AP Correspondent William Jorden reported the South Koreans pushed three miles north of Wonsan Friday against light resistance.

Planes Aid Troops

Fighter planes and artillery smashed Red pockets ahead of the ROKs.

Jorden said intelligence officers predicted stubborn resistance south of the next objective they listed—the big chemical center of Hamhung and Hungnam, 50 miles north of Wonsan. Hungnam is one of the world's largest producers of ammonium sulphate. Plants at nearby Hamhung once turned out nitric acid for Japanese war machine.

In their advance through the hills northwest of Wonsan, the South Koreans captured three Russian-made 40 mm. anti-aircraft guns and large quantities of small arms and ammunition.

Die-hard Reds dug in on small islands in the mouth of Wonsan bay were battered by planes supporting the northward push. The planes started fires on two of the largest islands—Tae-Do and Sin-Do.

Vivian Ann Smith, of Petersburg, Va., has lived a soldier's life for the past two years being at four different camps with her soldier father and mother. She suffered a deficiency of Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron and as a result she was weak and run-down until HADACOL helped relieve these deficiencies.

Here is what her mother, Mrs. Myrtle Smith said: "Vivian Ann lived a soldier's life as we were at four different camps in two years. These changes apparently had a great deal to do with making the child ill and irritable. She was just skin and bones until seven weeks ago. I really had just about given up hope for her. Her skin was the color of chalk and she would not eat. She was fretful all the time and it made us all unhappy to see her suffering. We heard how much good HADACOL had done so many and now after six bottles she has gained 12 pounds. She has color in her cheeks and her disposition is perfect. She sleeps well. No one can imagine what a change it has made in all our lives."

HADACOL Is Wonderful

in the way it has helped thousands of folks whose systems were deficient in Vitamins B1, B2, Niacin and Iron. HADACOL is so different because HADACOL helps build up the hemoglobin content of your blood (when Iron is needed) to carry these precious Vitamins and Minerals to every organ, and every part of your body—to the heart, liver, kidneys and lungs.

Give remarkable HADACOL a chance and if you don't feel better with the first few bottles you take —you get your money back. Only $1.25 for Trial Size. Large Family or Hospital Size, $3.50.

Salem College Is Proposed Here As Unit Of Penn-Ohio U.

Plans for the establishment of Salem College, operating under the Penn-Ohio Educational Foundation and Penn-Ohio university, Youngstown, were disclosed today by Garland A. Bricker, president of Penn-Ohio University.

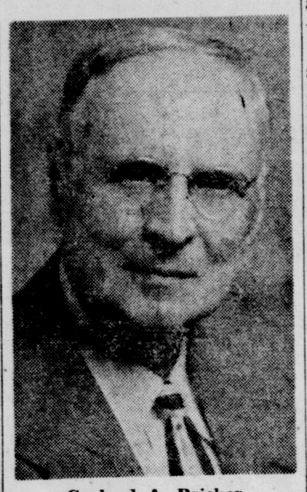

The decision to create a school known as Salem College was reached after Mr. Bricker secured an option on purchasing the equipment of the idle Salem Business college.

Under the Penn-Ohio Foundation, it is planned to acquire adequate property here for a college building, Mr. Bricker announced.

Meanwhile registrations are being taken today, Saturday and Monday from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. at the Lape hotel lobby to enroll pupils in four courses being offered at the outset—secretarial, accounting, dress-making and other vocational subjects. Day and night classes will be held, according to Mr. Bricker.

Mr. Bricker, a former professor at Ohio State and Syracuse universities, has served as president of New York State School of Agriculture on Long Island, Union Christian college at Merom, Indiana, and the State School of Science at North Dakota at Wahpeton.

He is the author of a half dozen books, mostly on rural subjects.

Retailers Oppose Retail Credit Curbs

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13—(UP)—The government ran headlong into its first open opposition to economic controls today from irate retailers who complained that consumer credit curbs are hurting business.

In a meeting with National Production Administrator William H. Harrison, the retailers said installment buying controls have cost them customers and already have driven some prices down.

The retailers recommended that the controls be realized and called on the government to delay imposition of wage-price curbs.

Harrison agreed that the retailers would be hard hit if further controls are ordered, but offered no solution.

A WANT AD CAN FIND IT

Modestly Admits His Honesty; Wins $200

NEW YORK, Oct. 13—(AP)—An honest taxi driver? They're all honest. But a modest honest taxi driver? Well—

When Miss Camilla Steinbrugge stepped from a cab into the hotel Roosevelt last night she suddenly realized she'd left her bag in the taxi. It contained $2,000 in cash, a passport and a first class ticket on the liner Ile de France among other things.

Police were notified. Miss Steinbrugge paced the floor.

Couple of hours later a taxi driver hurried in. "Just found this bag in my cab," he said. "Think it belongs to a lady I dropped here."

It did.

Everybody wanted to know his name. The taxi driver was reluctant. Miss Steinbrugge pressed $200 on him. All right, he admitted, his name was Harry Goldwasser.

Youngstown Firm Bids Low To Delete Curve

The Youngstown firm of Kane, O'Horo and Haenny Inc., submitted a low bid of $342,321 to the state highway department Tuesday for eliminating a dangerous curve on Route 224, east of Ellsworth, and constructing a new bridge over Meander creek.

The firm's bid was $11,079 below the highway department estimate for the project. Awarding the contract will probably be made within the next few weeks, the highway department said.

All Government Is Local

IT WOULD BE a costly lesson, but one experience with the kind of bombing attack feared by U.S. cities would teach state and national authorities that all government is local.

The notion that responsibility for public affairs somehow has been shifted to remote points is one of several such illusions created by the bellowing of distant politicians and office holders. There is no substance behind the noise they make. Another is the notion fostered by the authoritarians that Washington should spend billions but local government should be run on an austerity basis.

Their pretensions of authority are hollow without local government to back them up. And if they continue to think, as some of them obviously do think, that local ability to deal with civil defense awaits their decisions on points of law, it would take only one real emergency to wake them up.

The U.S. conference of mayors met recently in Washington. The atmosphere of the meeting was not friendly, because the mayors wanted to tell certain federal officials that local government is tired of waiting for overdue decisions at the national level. There would be the same kind of atmosphere in a meeting with state officials.

National defense, in the sense of waging war against an enemy, is necessarily a federal responsibility. But in the sense of doing something about the kind of war which may be waged against U.S. cities, national defense is a local responsibility.

It would not be a bureaucrat from Washington or a jobholder from the state capital who would answer fire alarms, wield a shovel, bandage a wound or keep the population from panic. It would be a neighbor and the neighbor would not ask remote consent before lending a hand; contrary to the practice in recent years of looking to Washington or the closest branch office for the wherewithal to stay alive.

It would be a hard way to learn all this to have a bombing attack, but if that were to happen, the illusion of federal and state authority so carefully nursed by authoritarians would be one of the first casualties.

Two Sides Of The Same Thing

AMERICANS who forget that Korea and Manchuria are two sides of the same thing in Asiatic power politics are in danger of being caught off base.

Specifically, they are in danger of assuming that the war in Korea can be viewed separately from the threat of war in Manchuria. The threat exists in the possibility that South Korean armies moving toward the border of Manchuria may become involved with the Manchurian troops.

Manchuria is the stronghold of the Chinese Communists. Manchuria and Korea are one and the same thing to Russia, which traditionally has sought both of them for the same purpose—expansion into the productive areas of Asia. Russian ambition in this respect has been the source of friction with Japan, which has wanted Korea and Manchuria for the same purpose.

There is no logical reason as far as history is concerned for thinking that Russian imperialism under Stalin is any different from imperialism under the czars. The only difference, and a substantial one, is that modern Russian imperialism uses the ideology of Communism to gain converts within the areas it hopes to conquer. There is only a thin distinction between Manchurian Communists and Korean Communists; they represent the same thing.

As far as the Kremlin is concerned, there is no border between Manchuria and Korea. The official border is of no more consequence to Russian planners than the imaginary border between North and South Korea. It is unrealistic to believe troops moving northward will be allowed to call a truce if they come face to face with troops representing Manchuria.

Bitter Lesson

SECRETARY of the Army Frank Pace tells us now that a mere 700 U.S. soldiers fought to hold the line in the first bitter delaying action against the North Koreans.

We all knew our forces were small and ill-equipped, but few of us probably imagined the defenders were that scant in number. Pace said that only a relative handful of the original 700 are alive today to recount their terrible ordeal.

The full story these men can tell should be unfolded for us here at home, so we may understand once and for all the awful price in blood and pain that unpreparedness exacts.

Labor Government

By PETER EDSON

Young Men Backing Up Aging Leaders

LONDON

A RECENT public opinion survey in Britain asked the man in the street how many members of the Labor government cabinet he could name The result was a surprise. Mr. Average Citizen could name not more than these half dozen:

Prime Miniter Clement Attlee; Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin; Chancellor of the Exchequer (secretary of the treasury) Sir Stafford Cripps; Minister of Town and Country Planning Hugh Dalton; Minister of Defense Emanuel Shinwell; Minister of Health Aneurin Bevan. That was about all. It represented only a third of the British cabinet of 18 ministers.

It is doubtful if a similar quiz in the United States on the Truman cabinet would turn up a better average. But in Britain, this bad showing was taken as a sign of weakness in the Labor party. What would happen when these big six died or retired? Would it be the end, by default, of the Labor movement and its socialization and nationalization programs? Or were there some rising young men in the party to carry on?

British political experts, and civil service officials in His Majesty's government began looking at the Labor members of Parliament with a new interest.

THEIR ANALYSIS gave new prominence to a group of smart young leaders, between 35 and 45 years of age, backing up the older leaders like Cripps and Bevin, whose health is not good.

There is a difference between these younger men and their better-known superiors. The oldsters in the Labor party all came up the hard way, through the ranks of the trades union movement. They had not had what are referred to as "all the advantages."

The younger men are more of the "intellectual" type. They have been well educated. They joined the Labor party because they believed in its principles and programs, and were fed up with Conservative failures. They are more the type of Sir Oliver Franks, the exceptionally brilliant Oxford professor of philosophy who so ably represents the British in Washington.

The names of these young men who are said by competent British observers to have a real future in the Labor party are little known in the United States. All are, of course, elected members of Parliament. This is the first requisite for membership in the British sub-cabinet.

There are 17 "ministers not in the cabinet" and 24 "other ministers" which make up this full leadership of the Labor party government.

HERE ARE some of these young men going places in British politics, whose names are expected to become better known to Americans in the next few years:

H. T. N. Gaitskell, 44, minister of State for Economic Affairs. He was a first honors man at Oxford, later a professor at University of London. In the recent illness and absence of Sir Stafford Cripps, Hugh Gaitskell has taken over the full load of responsibility.

K. G. Younger, 42, minister of state. The son of a viscount, he was a wartime major in the Intelligence Corps, and later served as an UNRRA official.

J. Harold Wilson, 34, president of the Board of Trade. Another economics professor who served in minor positions in the coalition government war cabinet and as a civil servant.

Hector McNeil, 42, minister for Scotland. A Glasgow-born journalist, he was private secretary to Cabinet Minister P. J. Noel-Baker, as well as a vice president of the UN Assembly in 1947.

P. C. Gordon-Walker, 43, Secretary of State for Commonwealth Relations. A historian and author of "Outline of Man's History," he worked as private secretary to Herbert Morrison, lord president of the Council.

In addition to these five, there is another quintet of younger men on whom the Labor party relies:

John Dugdale, 45, minister of Colonial Affairs. Son of an army colonel and a war veteran himself, he has served as a secretary to Clement Attlee in 1945.

Alfred Robens, 40, parliamentary secretary of power. He is a former trade union secretary.

Goeffrey de Freitas, 37, a parliamentary undersecretary of state. Another former Attlee private secretary, he was a Yale student.

A. M. Crawley, 42, parliamentary undersecretary for air. He remained a staunch defender of Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin for his cooperation with America when that was an unpopular course of action.

R. R. Stokes, 53, minister of works. He is a manufacturer and a World War I major whose presence in the Labor government has been something of a political puzzle.

But all these younger men have sometimes been classified as "the voices of moderation" in the Labor party. Not that there is any split seen in the party's ranks or principles. It is just that they are not all-out advocates of reform. And they may play an important part in shaping future Labor government policy.

Refugees From the Ashcan

By TRUMAN TWILL

IT SAYS here on a slip of paper that Dwight D. Eisenhower is going to be 60 years old in a few days (Oct. 14).

Another fellow who made good at the soldiering profession, Douglas MacArthur, already was 10 years old when the Eisenhower kid arrived. He was born Jan. 26, 1880.

Bernard Baruch reached 80 last Aug. 19.

So today's discussion is whether or not the time has come to retire the 70-year-old MacArthur, ease out the 60-year-old Eisenhower and give up on Baruch the octogenarian. Of course it hasn't come, because all are special cases.

Each of these men has earned the right to be regarded as a special case because of special circumstances. Away back in 1937, when Gen. MacArthur was only 57 years old, he retired officially. But the retirement didn't stick, because only four years later the United States called him back to duty as commander of its armed forces in the Far East. He was needed.

Gen. Eisenhower gave up his uniform in 1948 to become president of Columbia university, which amounts to starting a new career at an age when an ordinary American male is supposed to be easing himself into a rocking chair. Baruch goes on forever.

He and Eisenhower are in demand, like MacArthur.

It may be assumed safely that all have days when they say wryly that they are feeling as good as they ever felt in their whole lives—for about 15 minutes. They have had to deal with some of the ravages of advancing age, such as loss of hair, falling teeth and their quota of aches and pains. Baruch sometimes has to turn off his hearing aid to get rid of blabber-mouths.

But it has not occurred to anyone in his right mind to insist on getting rid of these men for the simple reason that all three are highly valued for the work they are capable of performing.

When the country decided to reassure itself about national security a few weeks ago, it turn to Gen. George C. Marshall, disregarding the fact he will turn 70 next Dec. 31.

One day before long it is going to dawn on a lot of Americans who have gone overboard with the pension fad that there are a lot of special cases like the MacArthurs, Eisenhowers and Baruchs. A man's numerical age has nothing to do with his fitness for the work he is doing.

There are men who should be retired in their twenties because they have run out of gas as far as showing aptitude is concerned. There are men in their eighties who can run circles around others half that old and have enough energy left over to play leapfrog.

The notion that retirement should be based on the calendar instead of ability is as monstrous as the notion would be that an automobile should be junked when it has reached a certain age.

Sez the Donkey

Purpose Of Pacific Conference

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON

POLITICAL Washington, which includes the strategists of both parties, has just about recovered from the shock it got when President Truman, without consulting anybody, suddenly announced that he was going to the Pacific to meet General MacArthur.

The general observation is that the President has managed to clothe the visit with an international importance that nobody can quite prove and with a domestic importance in the political campaign which everybody is quite willing to concede.

For, the skeptics say, if the incident really had the significance in world affairs that the announcement seeks to convey, then the Secretary of State, Dean Acheson, would or should have gone to the meeting It just isn't accepted that Mr. Truman is so conversant with the details of the important questions alleged to be under consideration that he can sit in for his own Secretary of State.

Conversely, if the men who are accompanying the President to advise him on matters of foreign policy—Messrs. Averell Harriman, Assistant Secretary Dean Rusk and Ambassador Philip C. Jessup—are the people who really make foreign policy nowadays, it tends to rank Secretary Acheson as of much less consequence than his opponents believe him to be.

While the last 24 hours have given an opportunity for wide conjecture, certain bits of news have been released which throw more light on the whole subject.

FIRST, it was disclosed at the White House that the idea of the trip was born aboard the presidential yacht on the recent week's cruise and hence was not the carefully conceived plan of anybody in the Department of State or the Department of Defense, where it might have been suspected that policies of such major character would originate. The hasty summoning of Messrs. Harriman, Rusk and Jessup to pack their suitcases and get aboard a plane to travel halfway around the globe to participate in a conference for which there might ordinarily have been more preparation testifies to the impromptu nature of the whole affair.

Second, the mayor of San Francisco let the cat out of the bag by saying he did not know till someone in Washington told him that he was expected to invite the President to make a speech in the same opera house where the U. N. was created in 1945.

The mayor of any city which had that tradition to cherish would have been delighted to issue an invitation to the President to speak. But the fact remains the White House inspired the speech idea and this can only mean that someone with an eye to political effects and publicity in a campaign developed the whole plan and Mr. Truman accepted it promptly.

From a political viewpoint, Mr. Truman speaks in the area where there has been much opposition to his Far Eastern policy. But the speech will be broadcast nationally and it will have a larger audience than otherwise would have been the case because Mr. Truman will be delivering it after his talk with General MacArthur.

THE PURPOSE of course is to offset, if that is possible, the antagonism to a foreign policy which last January announced that Korea would not be defended and then reversed itself in June without giving a word of warning to our military chiefs as to the obligation to fight that would be imposed on them. The casualties of more than 20,000 since last summer attest to the tragic side of our unpreparedness. More than $50,000,000,000 were spent in five years for defense.

The President, as the commander-in-chief and chief executive, is responsible for lapses in both military policy and foreign policy. It is natural that he should take the step now to defend his administration. It is natural, too, that he should seek to bask a bit in the glamor that surrounds the great general in the Far East. After all, with the exception of Stalin, there is no other man in the world that President Truman could visit with such spectacular publicity in the press, with pictures and newsreels and nationwide radio hook-ups to tell about the adventure.

Health To You

Colitis Difficult To Relieve

UNFORTUNATELY, colitis, which is the ordinary term that doctors now use for spastic colon, is one of the most difficult things to relieve completely.

Q—If colitis is not relieved by months of diet and sedatives, is it advisable to resort to surgery? Does it affect the back? P. D. R.

Dr. Jordan

A—A spastic colon is affected by diet but is also closely related to the nervous system. Anger, worry, and things of that sort always make the condition worse, and perhaps this is the reason why you have not received relief. Surgery is not indicated unless it is ulcerative colitis. Frequently some of the symptoms of a spastic colon are referred to the back.

* * *

Q—Is it all right to let a small baby cry and scream without paying any attention to it? Some people think it is good for their lungs. I believe some crying is all right, but too much will hurt the baby. Reader.

A—I agree with you. Too much crying in a small baby—particularly a boy—may lead to a rupture. On the other hand, a baby should not be picked up every time it cries.

* * *

Q—Is chewing ice favorable or damaging to a 4-year-old child's teeth? Mrs. J. K.

A—I doubt that dentists would recommend it.

* * *

Q—I am 22 years old and for the last six years have had spots on my skin which do not tan with the rest of my body. What could this be? J. B.

A—The most likely possibility is a skin condition called leukoderma or vitiligo. This is not a serious disease but there is no accepted cure for it. There is a strong family tendency to the condition.

* * *

Q—Are vitamins helpful or harmful for one who has hypertension? It is advisable or not for such a person to travel by airplane? J. G.

A—Vitamins in normal amounts should be taken by a person with hypertension but there are no reasons to believe that excessive amounts would be either helpful or harmful. With regard to travel by airplane, a lot depends on the degree of high blood pressure. Also the altitude of flying and the use of pressurized cabins play a part in the decision. Since the question is an individual one, the patient with hypertension should consult his or her physician regarding any contemplated flight.

* * *

Q—The soles of my feet keep burning all the time. What causes this, and what canI do about it? Mrs. F. H.

A—The feet should be examined for ringworm or other infections, and for flat feet. There is also a possibility that the symptoms are caused by some nervous condition which will require an accurate diagnosis by your physician.

* * *

Q—My son's heart rate is 60 and rises to only 71 after exercise. He has not heart murmur, his blood pressure is normal and he plays football. Does this indicate heart trouble? Mrs. L. T. S.

A—A slow pulse rate in a young athlete is more likely to be a good sign than a bad one. Of course, he should not be allowed to overdo and he should be examined from time to time. His doctor's advice regarding his activities should be closely followed.

GI Alone

By HAL BOYLE

Officer Missed Conversation

KOREA

LIVING alone for 69 days behind enemy lines in wartime is bound to teach a man something.

Lt. Joseph E. Hicks, 25, a platoon leader from Cobden, Ill., survived such an ordeal.

Hal Boyle

For the first six or seven days he had no food at all. He had nothing but rice, a few potatoes and an occasional dried fish the rest of the time.

From July 25 until Oct. 5—69 lonely days—he saw no American face except the mirrored reflection of his own features when he knelt to drink from a mountain stream. He met no one who could speak his own tongue.

The first day, after the Reds overwhelmed and destroyed his outfit at Kochang, he spent nearly submerged in a road culvert. Only four inches of air lay between the stinking water and the culvert ceiling. He spent the next six days cramped under a roadside strawpile, and when he arose he fell flat on his face.

For about nine weeks thereafter he shivered in solitary mountain hideouts, cold at night and often wet from rain during the day. He had no weapons, no blankets, no coat—only his thin, worn fatigue uniform. His bed was pine boughs. And he could rest well neither by night nor by day because of the fear that he would be found by enemy patrols.

"ONCE IT rained for about 40 hours, and the water rose and washed away my bed of sticks," re recalled. "I had to perch on a rock for two days until the river ebbed. It wasn't as bad as it sounds because by them I learned to squat on my haunches comfortably like the Orientals do."

I asked him to put into one word what he had learned from his terrifying experience. He thought a moment and said:

"Patience."

Then he laughed and remarked, "But of course I should have learned that from being in the army."

Hicks is a tall, handsome young officer with dark, intelligent eyes. He doesn't see his qualities of endurance as heroic.

"To have surrendered would have meant to die," he said. "What I was most worried about was that winter would come before the Americans counterattacked. And I didn't didn't know whether I could live through a winter in the mountains.

"All I had was a pencil, a few scraps of paper, a compass and my canteen."

The morning I met him he was just leisurely finishing his third breakfast.

"More than anything else I missed somebody to talk to," he said.

"I had a lot of time to sit around and look at space."

THE MOST welcome sound he heard was the signal whistle of a loyal South Korean who came every week or so to bring him rice.

"It was a big problem to keep the rice dry," he said. "Rice spoils quickly if it gets wet. And it seemed to be always raining."

But except for a few boils his health was good. He actually gained weight.

"I never had a headache once," he said. "For the first 20 days I missed the lack of sugar. But rice is something you get used to. It always tasted good, and the more I ate the more the taste improved. I still like it."

A watch was a civilized gadget he yearned for most.

"Boy, there's nothing I missed more than not knowing the time," he laughed. "But I kept track of the days pretty well.

"I thought that the first thing I wanted to do when I got back was to get out of the army. But now I don't know. Once you are back with the boys a few days, your viewpoint changes."

And then he said slowly and quietly:

"I guess there is one thing more I learned. Miracles can happen."

Carol Girard Drive Pushed By V. F. W.

A five-way medicine fund campaign to finance the purchase of an expensive drug for Carol Ann Girard, aged six, has been planned by the Veterans of Foreign Wars post under the direction of Commander Robert Carpenter.

The V. F. W. has placed 60 canisters in downtown and neighborhood stores. Post members will man kettles at the entrance to Reilly field tonight and on downtown streets Saturday.

A house-to-house canvass will start next week. Mailed contributions should be sent to E. M. Stephenson at the Farmers National bank.

Carol Ann, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Girard of 465 S. Broadway, was stricken by spinal meningitis and her doctor prescribed the new drug in the attempt to save her life. Hospital authorities report she is in good condition today, but the drug will be continued beyond the five-day period originally set by her doctor.

Salem College
WILL BE OPENED BY PENN-OHIO UNIVERSITY
President Garland Armor Bricker of Penn-Ohio University in Youngstown announces that he has an option to purchase all the equipment of Salem Business College, and that the University proposes to organize and open SALEM COLLEGE immediately, with four departments in operation—the Collegiate Department, the School of Business, the Dressmaking School, and Vocational High School. Other departments and schools will be added as soon as demands shall warrant.
STUDENTS TO MATRICULATE FRIDAY, SATURDAY, MONDAY, OCTOBER 13, 14, 16

Part of University
The new College will be a part of Penn-Ohio University, and under the same management. Students of SALEM COLLEGE will be matriculated in the University and those who complete its courses will be granted the same diplomas and certificates as in similar courses in Youngstown. The highly successful individualized instruction in small classes will be given here, same as in the Youngstown school.
The full establishment of SALEM COLLEGE hinges only on what support Salem and vicinity will give in the matter of students who will enroll for the various courses to be offered. To determine this, the University will take preliminary registrations in the lobby of Hotel Lape from 9 to 9 tomorrow, Saturday, Monday, Oct. 13, 14, 16.
Registrations will be taken for the Secretarial Course, Accounting Course and Dressmaking Course, or any of their subjects. These are all career courses. Registrations may also be made for certain College subjects.

Tuition Is Low
All the Business School and Dressmaking subjects are two-hour subjects, reciting twice weekly. The tuition, same as at Youngstown, will be $20 each subject for the quarter year term of 12 weeks, payable at the first recitation, either in full, or half down and half in 30 days.
The business courses will start with Typing, Shorthand, Bookkeeping, Business English, English Fundamentals, etc., either beginning ,intermediate, advanced or brush-up. Same for Dressmaking and all subjects offered in the Collegiate Dept.
SALEM COLLEGE will operate both Day and Night Classes, so that working people may get training for better jobs and careers.

Free Employment Service
SALEM COLLEGE will maintain a free Employment Service, and Extension Department, and other facilities of a modern educational institution.
WE'RE LOYAL AND TRUE AT PENN-OHIO U.

Backed by Foundation
This whole SALEM COLLEGE project is being underwritten and guaranteed by the Penn-Ohio Educational Foundation, an Ohio Corporation not for profit, of which Dr. Bricker is also president. The Foundation intends that every dollar paid into SALEM COLLEGE will be spent in defraying its operating expenses and development; and that no money shall be taken out of Salem community, nor spent on any other project.
Patrons and prospective students are free to ask any questions of Dr. Bricker, who will be at the Lape Hotel lobby to interview, answer questions and supervise registrations.

Salem's Opportunity
Here is Salem's opportunity to help in the establishment of a college for this community, for its young people and its adults. Age 16 or over and a desire to learn are the only requirements.
REMEMBER, the establishment of SALEM COLLEGE will be determined this week by the response in registrations at HOTEL LAPE, during the next three days.

Radio Station Fights FCC Order

WASHINGTON, Oct. 13—(AP)—Radio Station WTUX in Wilmington, Del., has promised to fight in the courts an order for it to wind up its affairs and go off the air within 90 days because of 1948-49 horse racing broadcasts.

The communications commission (FCC), which issued the order yesterday, said the programs assisted Wilmington bookmakers in their business and had been used by them to further illegal gambling operations there.

The commission took the action—the first of its kind—despite notice from the station that it had cut out all racing broadcasts and cancelled its contract with Armstrong Publications, which sponsored the program and supplied the station with race results by teletype.

FCC said these actions were "belated reforms."

E. S. KERR ON VACATION

Superintendent of Schools E. S. Kerr is vacationing this week. He will return to his office Wednesday.

HIS EYESIGHT DESTROYED by a hand grenade while fighting in South Korea, Sgt. Edward Sanders bravely makes plans for his future in a San Francisco hospital. Reading to him is Red Cross nurse Eleanor Donohue. In an adjoining ward lies his wife, Carol, who was wounded when a Yak plane straffed an evacuation ship. Already Sanders is starting to study Braille and "preparing for work again."

Prison Farm Escapee Surrenders To Police

COLUMBUS, Oct. 13—(AP)—City police today held a Massillon man who surrendered here and said he was a fugitive from the Osborne state prison farm near Sandusky.

He was identified as Charles Kutscher. He appeared at city jail yesterday and told police he was giving himsely up because he was "dirty and hungry."

Kutscher said he escaped last Tuesday with Robert Blackburn of Canton and Ray McCormick of Akron. The other two still are at large.

Kutscher will be held pending arrival of prison farm officials.

Bell Offers Raise

CLEVELAND, Oct. 13—(AP)—Ohio Bell Telephone Co. has offered pay increases ranging up to $5 a week to more than 14,000 of its employes. A contract proposed to the CIO communications workers union would also allow workers to reach top pay rates in six and a half years instead of eight years as at present. The hikes in most cases would run from $2 to $5. A company spokesman said most weekly rates now range from $50 to $85 in the plant and traffic departments where most are employed.

State Convention Speaker Lauds PTA

DAYTON, Oct. 13—(AP)—A Missouri school superintendent told the Ohio Congress of Parents and Teachers last night that an effective P.T.A. "is the best bridge between school and home."

Superintendent John L. Bracken of Clayton, Mo., addressed 2,000 delegates at the group's 45th annual state convention here.

"The P.T.A.," Bracken said, "is a poor, hard-working group."

Bracken cautioned that the P.T.A. should not supplant the taxpayer. The purpose of the organization, he added, is not to provide equipment and supplies.

He gave this as his idea of a well-rounded P.T.A. program:

"Parent-supported developments in a single area include comprehensive health examinations for the students, health examinations for all children returning to school after absence on account of illness or for reasons unknown, two dental examinations a year with a follow-through for persons unable to have needed work done privately, a comprehensive summer recreation program supported by tax funds, free admissions to school contests and programs and promotion of sex education in the home, by parents."

Texas Grid Tilts Will Shake Up Standings

Texas, SMU Are Rated Winners

Army Lays 22-Game Record On The Line

NEW YORK, Oct. 13—(AP)—Texas, the king-sized state comes up with a king-sized doubleheader tomorrow that promises to give the college grid standings a vigorous shakeup.

Three of the four top teams in the country and a boisterous neighbor which is unbeaten and once-tied square off in a battle of giants in Dallas' Cotton Bowl.

Oklahoma, third-ranked nationally, will throw its 23-game winning streak against ponderous Texas, No. 4, in the afternoon phase of the twin attraction. Southern Methodist and Oklahoma A. and M. will go out under the lights to complete the job.

SMU IS ranked second nationally, just behind Army. Oklahoma A. and M. isn't rated but here's a team that was good enough to beat Arkansas and Texas Christian and tie Drake.

The two games—with separate admissions—are expected to draw a total of 130,000 fans. A large hunk of Oklahoma's population is moving across the Red river for the doings.

Dallas' doubleheader will snare some of the spotlight from the big game in Yankee stadium where Army's Black Knights, unbeaten in 22 games, will defend their new No. 1 rating against fired-up, once-beaten Michigan.

This game, the season's major attraction in the east outside the Army-Navy extravaganza, is expected to lure 70,000 into Yankee stadium.

THE COLLEGE campaign really picks up momentum this week with major conference clashes vieing with intersectional skirmishes for the attention of the gridiron gourmet. The activities actually get under way tonight with Illinois and UCLA, the 1947 Rose Bowl principals, tangling at Los Angeles.

Michigan's Wolverines are expected to be keyed to the gills for the meeting with Army and to have their best backfield man, Chuck Ortmann, in shape for the first time since the opening game.

The Cadets, who boast a racehorse backfield, never have lost to the Wolverines. Last year they snipped a 25-game Michigan winning streak, 21-7.

At Dallas, Texas is rated a touchdown edge over the Sooners, who just squeaked through against Texas A. and M. last week, and SMU, with Kyle Rote at the throttle, is a solid choice over the Oklahoma Aggies.

Illini, UCLA Meet In 1947 Renewal

LOS ANGELES, Oct 13—(AP)—Illinois, a pre-season candidate to represent the Big Ten in the Rose Bowl football game next New Year's day, engages UCLA, a team with no such dreams in the Pacific Coast Conference, in an intersectional tilt tonight in Memorial Coliseum.

The Illilnois hopes were dulled in the mud by one point in a 7-6 setback by Wisconsin last Saturday, while the surprising Bruins of UCLA missed out by a similar margin to Washington, 21-20.

The Illini rule a firm one touchdown favorite tonight. Many observers think it should be larger, and hark back to the Rose Bowl game of 1947 when local UCLA admirers made them the favorites over Illinois and then saw the midwesterners tromp the Bruins by a 45-14 count.

Coach Ray Eliot of Illinois is the only important familiar face back from the 1947 contest. The playing personnel for both squads is new and Henry R. (Red) Sanders is now the UCLA coach.

Most publicized offensive threat for Illinois is 185-pound Johnny Karras. The Illinois crowd admits, however, that Karras, averaging only 3.4 yards per carry, has not yet returned to the 6.5 yard average registered in 1949.

The UCLA striking force includes several equally dangerous backs such as Howard Hansen, Joe Marvin, Dave Williams, Bob Moore, Johnny Florence or Ted Narleski. Any one is capable of brilliant effort.

Warren Giles Suggests End Of Bonus Ruling

CINCINNATI, Oct. 13—(AP)—Warren Giles, president of the Cincinnati Reds and a long time supporter of baseball's bonus rule, said today he believed the rule should be thrown out entirely for a year and then revised.

Giles said "We had to work like the dickens to keep it last year." Now, he admitted, he has changed his mind. He thinks it should be revised drastically.

The rule now provides that players signed by major league teams for more than a $6,000 bonus can be farmed out for only a year and then must be brought into their major league clubs or become subject to the baseball draft.

Giles' proposal is that the rule be abolished completely for a year, thus allowing clubs to sign players as they wish. He also proposes that present bonus players be removed from that classification because "the Army is taking so many of them."

After that one year, Giles said he believes a workable rule can be devised.

"With that experience, we can come up with something that will work," he said.

Giles admitted that he helped lead the fight a year ago to keep the rule in effect.

"The international situation has changed the whole thing," he said.

"Between the Army and the bonus rule it will take five or six years to develop many players of major league caliber."

Giles was quick to explain that he had no selfish motive — the Reds haven't signed a bonus player in more than a year.

U. S. Marines Help To Beat Pittsburgh

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 13—(AP)—If the football opponents of the University of Pittsburgh have an easy time with the Panthers the remainder of the season, they can give the United States Marines credit for running interference.

Coach Len Casanova, former Santa Clara mentor who took over at Pitt this season and has seen his team lose two consecutive games, is a picture of despair today.

He has plenty of reason. The Marines have taken his men almost as fast as he can drill them in the intricate T-formation he brought along from the west coast.

The Marines grabbed two fullbacks even before Pitt lost its first game to Duke by a 28-14 score. They are Paul Chess and Mike Omatick who are at San Diego, Calif., awaiting further orders.

Next to be ordered to report was fullback John Husver who is slated to don his Marine uniform Oct. 18. He played last week as Pitt was battered 41-7 by Ohio State and is slated to be in the starting lineup as Pitt tangles with Rice Institute here tomorrow.

Casanova got the big blow yesterday.

The Marines ordered three of his varsity players to report for duty October 25. They are halfback Jim Campbell, right tackle Bill Gasparovic and left end Chris Warriner.

The odd situation that found at least 10 Panthers in the Marine reserves apparently resulted this way, Casanova declared:

"Some of the fellows decided to enlist in the reserves because they were in the draft age. They chose the Marines because the drill hall was close to the campus.

"Now, the Marines are calling upon the reserves and that's that."

The man who is a failure because he never can make up his mind really has little to work with.

Joe DiMag Considers Baseball Retirement

NEW YORK, Oct. 13—(AP)—Joe DiMaggio, who finished the 1950 baseball season in a blaze of glory, is not sure he will return to the New York Yankees next year.

DiMaggio, discussing his ailments of the past season, said yesterday, "I finished strong, felt better than I had all season and really felt great in the Series.

"But I can't be sure about next year. I'd like to know how my health is going to be. I don't want to go through 1950 all over again."

The Yankee star who earned $100,000 this year also said he saw no reason for taking up contract negotiations at this time. Yankee President Dan Topping was in accord with DiMaggio, saying, "There's no reason why we should talk with him now any more than the other regular players. However, we'd be ready to sit down with Joe whenever he's ready."

DiMaggio, who wound up with a .301 mark, plans to leave soon for his native San Francisco.

HITS 9 FOR 9

WHITESVILLE, W. Va., Oct. 13—(AP)—High school quarterbacks, look to your laurels!

Quarterback Ernie Bragg of the Whitesville junior high football team threw nine passes in a game last night and completed nine, for a total of 161 yards.

Four of the passes went for touchdowns as Whitesville defeated Hurricane Junior High 33-12.

DAILY DOZEN

By Bob Dixon

• Coach Howard Parker of East Palestine called this week to give us his views on the "Salem plays too rough" controversy. The matter had been brought to his attention by state-wide publication of the story by the AP's Fritz Howell.

• "We don't want people to think we agree with that stuff about Salem playing too rough," he said. "There was nothing but good hard playing on Salem's part in our game."

• "I admire hard football, because that's the only way to play the game," Parker continued. "If you don't play hard, the other fellow is going to knock you down."

• He asserted that he had never seen anything out of the way by a Salem team as long as he has met them. Parker discounted the theory that his boys might have been out of condition, saying the four who were hurt were his most conscientous players.

• One of the group, Bud Allard, won't play any more football this year. In the 1949 season, he sustained a concussion and was sidelined for the balance of the year. A second concussion in the Salem game two weeks ago was severe enough to keep him out again this season.

• The other two boys who got concussions are back in shape and playing football. Gordon Duwe, who twisted his knee making a tackle, is still ailing.

• Parker wasn't quite so agreeable about the assertion made in this space last week that we should drop East Palestine from our schedule. He said "we don't care," but his heart wasn't in it.

• He repeated three times, however, that the "rough" incident was not fostered in East Palestine and that his school wanted to disclaim any responsibility for the story.

• So, back to the Salem grid front, or what are we going to do about Steubenville Central Catholic? The Crusaders, unbeaten in four tilts, meet the mighty Mamilton this week. If they win that one, chances are they'll crack the "top 10" in Ohio.

• The Steubenville squad features a big Negro guard, Denny Davis, who weighs an even 200 pounds and who was named to the second All-Ohio team last year. They say he's terrific.

• Tonight, however, we don't have to worry about Steubenville. Wellsville is here. Chances are the Bengals won't be too troublesome.

• East Liverpool reporters who cover Wellsville games tell us Salem should win by about the same score as last year, 38-6.

School Levy Rally Planned

Event To Be Held Eve Before Election

COLUMBIANA, Oct. 13.— A rally and parade in support of the proposed special levy of two mills for three years for operating expenses of the Columbiana schools, to be voted on at the November election, is planned by the Grade School Mothers' club and the Boosters' club for Monday evening, Nov. 6, the night before election. Other civic groups and citizens generally will participate.

The Grade Mothers and the Boosters held separate meetings Wednesday in the high school building. Frank Hoover of the Plakie Toy Co., Youngstown, speaker for the Grade Mothers, was presented by Mrs. George Thompson, program chairman. Mr. Hoover distributed ten door prizes of cloth books and two Plakie toys, which were among those with which his firm started in business.

Mrs. William Davidson was elected corresponding secretary, and Mrs. Frank McGinness was retained as treasurer, Mrs. Kenneth Dowd, elected to the post, being unable to serve.

Mrs. Otto Stacy presided for an open forum in which members of the school board answered questions concerning the proposed levy. The small attendance of about 50 was attributed to the unfavorable weather.

THE BOOSTERS, at their meeting, made further plans for taking the football squad and cheer leaders to Columbus, Nov. 11, for the Ohio State-Wisconsin game. Transportation will be provided by Superintendent H. F. Richmond, Principal D. W. Bailey, Frederick Roth, Arthur Rohrer, Everett Warrick, Willis Miller, Coach James W. Hall, and R. G. Bevington, president of the club.

The Booster club police for the football and basketball seasons will handle the school levy parade the night of Nov. 6. Dad's day is being promoted by the club for the game with Sebring here Thursday, Oct. 26. The minstrel show has been postponed until after the close of the basketball season.

ORGANIZATION of a Columbiana Business and Professional Women's club as an affiliate of the national organization was completed at a meeting in city hall, Wednesday evening with the election of these temporary officers: Chairman, Mrs. Florence Guy; secretary, Margaret Morrow; treasurer, Helen Eckert; committee on by-laws, Helen Fuhrman, Mrs. Marie Lundgren and Ruth Culp. The charter will remain open 30 days longer.

Helene Prudner, president of the Salem club, presided. Others from out of town included Grace Perry of Akron, director of District 4, and Miriam Spiggle, president, and Betty Klein, secretary, of the Akron club. The next meeting will be at 8 p. m. Friday, Oct. 27, place to be announced.

A—For long distances the pronghorn antelope, fastest of all four-footed animals in America, con cover the countryside at 45 miles an hour.

Q—Why is it customary for kings to use the pronoun "we" in speaking of themselves?
